WOOLLEN MILLS

STAND NO E76

Established in 1965 as Carraig Donn Manufacturing by the Hughes family in Westport Co Mayo, Aran Woollen Mills today embodies a rich legacy of manufacturing Irish craft and heritage knitwear. Founded by Maura Hughes and her husband Padraig, the business began as a true family endeavour, with all members actively involved in various aspects, from product development to distribution. Initially specializing in hand-knit Aran sweaters and other woollen goods, the business fostered local employment by engaging over a hundred workers along the West Coast who crafted products in their homes.

Over the years, the business has flourished, expanding its operations to Bellmullet while maintaining its commitment to quality, sustainability, and supporting skilled Irish jobs. With over 100 employees and ambitious growth plans, Aran Woollen Mills continues to weave its story of tradition and innovation, inviting others to join its journey.

ARAN CRAFTS

STAND NO D108

West End Knitwear Ltd, Ireland's largest producer of 3 and 5 gauge contract knitwear, is based in County Kildare. The company designs and manufactures Aran sweaters, shawls, cardigans, and wool accessories for wholesale, using the highest quality wools.

Its main brand, Aran Crafts, was established in 1957 by Molly Cullen. The company's heritage spans over 100 years, directly linking to Ireland's long tradition of Aran knitwear. Molly's grandmother, Kate O'Shea, was the first craftswoman in Ireland to commercially market her hand-knitted woollens in 1856! The company's knitwear has long been recognized as the benchmark for modern Aran cable sweaters. Now run by Molly's grandsons, Niall and Barry Cullen, their extensive range incorporates traditional Aran stitches into modern and fashionable styles.

STAND NO C92

Founded in Dublin in 1488, Rathbornes is the world's oldest candle company. For over 500 years Rathbornes candles have illuminated the streets, homes, lighthouses and churches of Ireland, and the 100% natural candles which we produce today are still hand-crafted with many of the same skilled methods which we have used since the fifteenth century.

Rathbornes strives to make every candle to the highest possible quality. This means focusing on every detail to make candles that look, burn and smell truly wonderful. It took the team eighteen months for their blenders to create our fragrances and hundreds of hours have been devoted to blending, pouring and testing, and for each size of candle the best balance of wax and fragrance distribution combined with the optimum thickness of different wicks have been selected to ensure a superior quality burn.
